

Lesson 3

► How about a hot beverage?

How do you feel about winter? It's rather cold outside.
How about we go inside for a hot drink?

Hi everyone and welcome to English with JT.
Today we learn new vocabulary for hot beverages: coffee, tea and hot chocolate.
We also cover grammar for "how" questions.

Coffee helps me wake up in the morning.
I like to make coffee with a coffee brewer.
My coffee brewer uses coffee grinds that come from coffee beans.
I will put some coffee grinds into the filter.
The brewer filters water through.
Fresh coffee drips into the coffeepot.
It smells so good!
I can't wait to pour myself a cup.

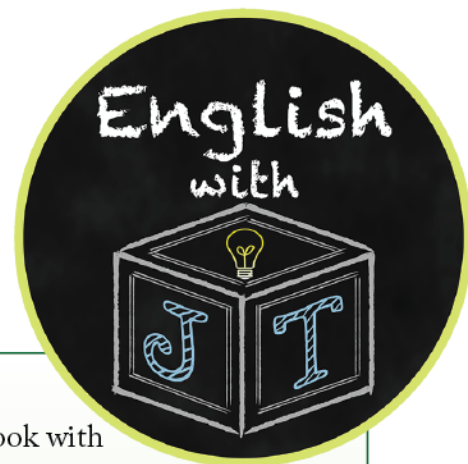

There are many ways to drink coffee.
Some people like to add cream, milk or sugar to coffee.
I like to add some cream and a little bit of sugar.
This coffee is perfect!
How much cream and sugar do you like in your coffee?

We also have decaffeinated coffee and instant coffee.
Decaf coffee is coffee without any caffeine.
Instant coffee is easy and convenient to make.

Another easy way to get a cup of coffee is from a coffee shop.
Here in Canada, the coffee shop many people love to visit is Tim Hortons.
Once there, you can order a Canadian favorite, which is a coffee with two creams and two sugars.
If you really want to sound like a typical Canadian, just ask for a "double double".
How well-known is the expression "double double"?
This Tim Hortons classic expression is even included in the Canadian Oxford Dictionary!

Lesson 3

► How about a hot beverage?

Coffee is great in the morning, but during the day I really enjoy a good book with a cup of tea.

In fact, people love to drink tea.

How popular is tea?

It is the second most popular drink, after water.

I also like to drink tea for my health.

Tea can be good for a sore throat.

It can also help you sleep better.

With over 3,000 varieties, tea has a lot of great health benefits.

How about we look at some of my tea collection?

Here, I have some mint and chamomile herbal teas in tea bags.

Also, I have some loose leaf black tea and some green tea.

Sometimes I like to pour tea from my favorite teapot.

I also have teacups, saucers and teaspoons for special occasions.

Normally, I steep a teabag in a cup of hot water.

With black tea, I like to add a little milk.

How long should we let the tea steep?

Winter might be cold, but skiing is so much fun!

After a cold day outdoors, I like to go inside for a nice warm cup of hot chocolate.

Another name for hot chocolate is hot cocoa.

How do we make hot chocolate?

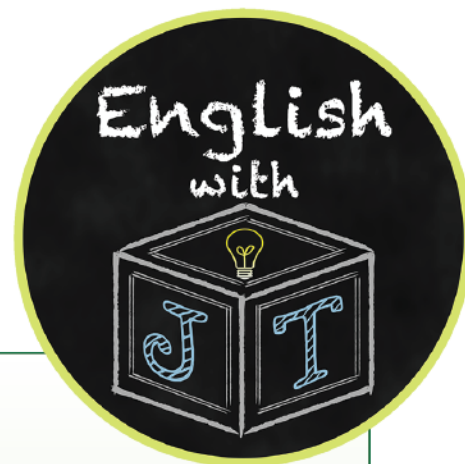

We make hot chocolate with cocoa powder.

Some people like to drink hot chocolate with marshmallows.

Other people like to add whipped cream to their hot chocolate.

Lesson 3

► Grammar: question word how

In this lesson, we talk about the question word how.
There are many different ways to ask questions with the word how.

How is ... ?

We use how is to ask about the status.

- How is your coffee?
- How are you?

How do ... ?

the way to do something

We use how do to find out the ways to do something.

- How do we make hot chocolate?

How do / How about ... ?

feeling

We can also use how do or how about to ask someone's feelings about something.

- How do you feel about winter?
- How do you like the mint tea?
- How about we go inside for a hot beverage?

How much / How many + noun ... ?

quantity

To find out about the quantity, we use how much or how many before a noun.

- How much cream and sugar do you want in your coffee?
- How many teaspoons of milk would you like in your tea?

How + adjective ... ?

intensity

length

weight

age

We use how followed by an adjective to ask about the intensity, length, weight, age, etc.

- How strong do you like your tea?
- How tall is this coffee tree?
- How heavy are those coffee beans?
- How old is your coffee brewer?

How + adverb ... ?

duration

frequency

We can also use how followed by an adverb to ask about the duration, frequency, etc.

- How long should we let the tea steep?
- How often do you drink coffee?